Feast of Christ Lover of Mankind

14 Травня 2015 р.

WE HAVE A WONDERFUL SUMMER OF OPPORTUNITY AHEAD!

We are half way through June.... Only a couple more weeks and our younger parishioners are out of school and ready to be "free", but they are also more than willing to use this time for things that are not that easy to organize during the school year.... like... special catechism courses... pilgrimage trips... visiting our churches around the province... getting our parish facilities up to snuff (painting, cleaning, carrying junk out to the recyclers and nuisance ground)... camping... etc.... The sky is truly the limit. What is needed is a good idea (well there are a lot of those) and a willingness to organize things without getting overly complicated. We need parents/adults to be willing to come out as assistants and leaders. We do have a parish bus. We do have places to go and things to do. Thanks to parish organizations like the Women's League, we even have a few dollars to get things off the ground. So... please, let's do some great things this summer! If you are asked to help out and/or participate... really consider doing so. If you have a great idea for a project or event, share it. Many people will have the time... God gives us the weather and the grace... He has also given us health and talents... lets use them!

LEST WE FORGET... Today is the anniversary of only one of the tragedies visited upon Ukraine since the people of that country dared to rise up in the "Revolution of Dignity" on the Maidan of Kyiv. Since the people of Ukraine rose up against the corruption of their own government, many things came to light... How involved and determined Russia was in the suppression and control of countries of the former Soviet Union... the hesitancy and even fear on the part of Western countries to get involved (even though they had made such promises long ago)... how overly trusting Ukrainians were in their government to the point that they had little defense against internal or external aggression... how easily people are manipulated by falsehoods and fear and apathy... etc. The event that happened a year ago was when a missile from Russian-supplied terrorists hit a military transport plane killing 49 soldiers and flight crew. To date, many thousands have died in the conflict, and, yes, continue to do so at this very time. It is the western media, and perhaps ourselves, that have allowed the tragedy to slip from sight. But we need to challenge ourselves at the very least not to cease remembering and praying for our brothers and sisters in Ukraine, the Middle East, Africa and other troubled areas of the world where the innocent are persecuted, maltreated and killed because of the selfish ambitions of those who do not have the ability to convince others of their position. Why can they not convince? Because their position is false and/or they are not dedicated believers themselves and/or they don't want to do the necessary slow work to achieve the goals they desire.

FEAST OF THE HOLY EUCHARIST—THURSDAY JUNE 4, 2015

A unique celebration of the Gift of the Holy Eucharist together with our sister-parish St. Alphonsus! The truly inspirational event began with Holy Eucharist hosting the Divine Liturgy then a procession took place to St. Alphonsus where we took part in the Benediction and we were then welcomed to a fellowship lunch!!

Closing Our Own Churches an excerpt from a posting on facebook 06.9.15

Yesterday someone said to me: We don't trust you because we think you want to close our church. It wasn't the first time I've heard that and it won't be the last.

The truth is, though, that those churches are usually closing themselves.

That sounds really harsh and I don't mean to be disrespectful. But congregations on the cusp of closure are often there because they've made choices that have risked the future of the church they love. Among those poor choices:

They chose to make their pastor the professional Christian, believing that it's the pastor's job (and only the pastor's job) to do ministry.

They chose to morph into a club, more worshipful of their building than God.

They chose to perpetuate an institution rather than make disciples or love their neighbors.

They chose mission that either separated them from the community they were trying to serve ("We'll send money but we don't really want to know those people") or elevated them over the community they were trying to serve ("We go down and help those people because they are too uneducated/irresponsible to help themselves.")

They chose to become landlords (renting their property to "tenants") over engaging in relational ministry (using their buildings as tools for ministry with partners whose names and needs they actually know.)

They chose the wrong pastor or they chose not to listen to the right pastor.

They chose to do ministry on the cheap even when they could afford more.

They chose to forego basic building maintenance to the point that maintenance became impossibly expensive.

They chose to allow ineffective volunteers and paid staff to keep their jobs too long.

They chose to leave the praying, the Bible study, the continuing education to the person who went to seminary.

They chose to hold their pastor to impossible standards.

They chose to devote their congregational efforts to something less than God.

Yep, that sounds severe, but it's sadly true. Before denominational leaders have the conversation about a church's plans for the future (which might mean closing so that a new congregation might be resurrected in their place) it's almost always the case that church members have unwittingly made choices that are killing their ministry. These are all excellent things for every congregation to consider!!
