HOLY EUCHARIST PARISH

25 September 2016

19th Sunday after Pentecost

25 Вересня 2016 р.

“Do to others as you would have them do to you”

(Luke 6:31) This basic guide for life, that Jesus spoke of in His astounding Sermon on the Mount (cf Luke 6), has been stated in countless different ways over the centuries. It is a phrase that is so logical and obvious that we sometimes don't grasp it. It's sometimes an experience of not seeing the forest for the trees. First of all the Christian approach to this rule is 'positive' and 'active'. It calls for action. Deciding to stay away from everyone in the hopes that they will leave me alone, is not the intent (at least not for the long term). The Lord God designed us to need society and need people in our lives. Our Saviour Jesus Christ called us to become part of a Church, and to collaborate with a community of people to seek our own salvation and to spread the Good News of the Gospel to everyone. For this community to work (whether it is in our marriages, families, parishes or within any group of any size), we need to respect each other and we need to work with each other and we need to cooperate... so that the big task that was entrusted to us - Evangelizing the world! - moves ahead. We need to achieve this goal, and in order to do so we need everyone's help. We can put together a whole rule book to cover every possible situation, OR... we can simplify matters by following the straight-forward "rule" that the Son of God holds out to us for our success...
