

BISHOPS ISSUE PASTORAL LETTER ON THE RENEWAL OF UNITY WITHIN THE CHURCH...

Excerpt - "The basic and most important circle of communion, one that touches the life of every member of our Church, is experienced in one's own parish. All of the elements of a vibrant parish, as a community of communities, help each person see oneself as a member of God's family. Here each faithful member identifies himself or herself with our Church. The pastor who builds up the parish community is a key servant-minister of church communion, assisted in this by all the faithful. We know well how much effort is needed on the part of all members of a parish community to build up its unity, and how easy it is to ruin it. No parish can be a self-sufficient entity, closed off in its own comfort zone. The parish is the basic unit of the eparchial community In the eparchy, the servant-minister of communion-unity is the [Bishop]... Therefore, the immediate and most important efforts of a bishop should be directed towards bringing together the eparchial community in all aspects... in deepening the spiritual life following the example of the Communion in Love in which the Persons of the Most Holy Trinity abide, and by following the example of the first Christian community of Christ's disciples in Jerusalem (see Acts 2:46-47; 4:32); by creating a common vision regarding the mission of the eparchy, by coordinating human, spiritual and material resources for this mission, and then by bringing it to life through the common efforts of clergy and lay faithful, together with their Pastor."
