Should we be excited that Lent - a.k.a. the Great Fast - is only a week away!?

Well, a person who is in need of healing and has been waiting a long time and now finally has the chance to undergo a health care program and receive medical attention... is excited! The procedure in the hospital or clinic will be challenging and tedious and will require cooperation and patience. However, with perseverance the person will be feeling much better in no time and after several weeks will be much healthier and well on the way to a new life. The same it is with the Great Fast. It is exciting, because it is a challenge that we all accept as a family, as a team. It may be difficult at times (they all say that the third day is the hardest), but we will support and encourage each other and we will make it! And we will be better people for it in the end. But, even well before the end, we will start to feel better spiritually and emotionally and, yes, physically. Want to try it as a group, as a team? When we meet next Sunday evening for the traditional "forgiveness service", let's talk about it. We can take a look at a few 'aids' to assist us with the Lenten journey (like prayer partners, Lenten reflection books, fasting journals) and maybe make a bit of a commitment to dedicate ourselves to prayer and fasting and, well, place our hope in the hands of the Lord and start off together. Oh yeah... This is exciting!

The first great and holy leaders of the Church (that we often refer to as "the Fathers") saw the most effective Lenten experience as being one of PRAYER, FASTING and ALMSGIVING. Among those "in need" that you may want to contribute toward... consider your own parish. We do outreach to the needy and we too need your generous support.
